> The Pennsylvania Republican State convention is in session at Harrisburg today. Many former Pennsylvanians reaches you. There is one big fight on hand, and only one; the nomination for the State committee. For a half dozen or more years Senator Thomas V. years ago. No well-regulated newspaper in Pennsylvania or adjoining States now ever thinks of mentioning his auburn covering of his skull. Well, as I was saying, Thomas has been a pretty fair chairman, at any rate, but some of the others of our party brethren are after his scalp, and the question to be decided is, Shall he be continued as chairman? One reason of the opposition to him is the fact that he is an open candidate for the governor's nomveteran Governor, General James A. As you are aware, I was a little child during the war. Not having been present upon the field of battle, or on the weary march, or in the prison pen, my only office during those awful years was ike that of other little children of my age, to anxiously watch every mail to know whom of our kindred friends then battling with you had been offered as a sacrifice upon his country's altar. These are the sources of the impressions that I then gained.

I can truly speak as a son of a veteran, and as one who is linked by the dearest ties to those who suffered in that bloody conflict.

Thanking you and your post for the kind invitation, I shall discharge the trust you have imposed upon me to the best of my ability.

Yours respectfully, J. R. BURTON.

On the street he met the boy and asked him for the check. The boy gave it up; it had already been indorsed 'Samuel C. Walck' on the back and he was about to present it for payment.

The case was given into the hands of Deputy Sheriff Kirkwood who found the boy at the school house. He owned up to the forgery. Said he had seen men sign checks and knew exactly how to do it. He saw a man have some checks in the bank one day and asked for some, as he thought it would be an easy way to get some money. In answer to a question of how he knew Mr. Wahl had money in this bank, he replied that he saw Mr. W. draw some from the Abilene Bank and deposit it in the Citizens'.
